Tasting Notes:

The Muns vineyard is located 2600 feet above sea level on Loma Prieta. It sits mostly above the fog line and derives its cooling influences from its elevation, proximity to the Monterey Bay and cooling afternoon winds. The 2006 Muns Vineyard pinot has concentrated black cherry and berry fruit with subtle hints of oak aromatics. The Santa Cruz Mountains is probably my favourite appellation for pinot noir as it more often than not enhances the minerality of the wine, which in my book is classic pinot noir.
